

Independent Academic Evaluation: A Safer Keyham

Prof Zoë
James

Dr Katie
McBride

Who we are

We have been asked to do some research in Keyham and Ford to see what the community thinks about the work the police and community safety teams have been doing in the area to make people feel safer since the tragic incident of 12 August 2021.

Dr Daniel
Gilling

Caroline
Watson

We are working with the communities of Keyham and Ford, the police, community safety teams and Victim Support to find out how the initiatives have worked to support people over the last difficult year.

What the evaluation involves

Over the next few months, we will be carrying out research in the Keyham and Ford neighbourhoods. Please note that dates are approximate and may be subject to change.

June/July:

- Focus groups with community members and local agencies
- Community workshop focus groups with young people
- Interviews with local agencies

September/October:

- Interviews with community members
- An online survey of community members (in partnership with Dr Rebekah Southern, Southern Horizons (UK) Ltd)

Southern Horizons (UK) LTD

The evaluation will take a trauma-informed research approach, which means it will be carried out in a way that is careful and sensitive. The research has been designed to ensure that people involved are partners in the research and are not re-traumatised by taking part.

Contact

The evaluation team can be contacted at: keyhamevaluation@plymouth.ac.uk

UNIVERSITY OF PLYMOUTH
School of Society & Culture